

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Their planned action not only appears to violate federal law, but is a moral and public disservice. Public media is supposed to serve the public, not its owners interests. I have no desire to hear stark partisanship against either Kerry or Bush. Such actions violate the intent of the very laws designed to ensure communities have access to community news. If Sinclair wants to run political basher programs, they should not be allowed to do so with my money.

Thank you.
